“

Marked by the return of war on the European continent, its impact on food security and unprecedented heat waves, 2022 propelled us into 'an age of consequences'. Our Group is doing its bit to confront these challenges, with commitment and effectiveness. We're doing this by maintaining a high level of financial ambition, by reinforcing our technical cooperation with the arrival of Expertise France, and by transforming our institution into a platform to mobilize partners who share our objectives and wish to cooperate with France. With the 26 members of the International Development Finance Club (IDFC) and the 530 Public Development Banks of the Finance in Common Summit (FiCS) movement, the partnership dynamics show that they alone are able to counter the fragmentation of the world and engage in a just and sustainable transition.
